

Designer:

Inbar Kerper-Saranovitz

Architect:

360 Architects

Builder:

Messer/Nationwide Realty Investors

Flooring:Cherry wood,
Creative Touch InteriorsKitchen cabinetry:Shaker in cherry,
Cardell CabinetryKitchen countertops:Santa Sicilia Gold,
Marble & Granite WorksKitchen sink and faucet:

Kohler

Appliances:

GE

Bathroom cabinetry:

Cherry, Cardell Cabinetry

Bathroom countertops:

Marble, Marble &amp; Granite Works

Bathroom sink:

Kohler

Lighting:Chandelier and island light, Ethan Allen; Accent lighting, Bernard ElectricFurniture and accessories:

Ethan Allen

Windows:

Silhouettes, Hunter Douglas

Not only does the view out their window remind them of New York, the Worleys also live much like New Yorkers. Along with plenty of nearby neighbors, they wake up, grab a breakfast and go to work downtown with a coffee in hand. Due to their busy work schedules, Caroline is a small business and real estate attorney and Guy is CEO of Columbus Downtown Development Corporation and Capitol South Redevelopment Corporation—two businesses that focus on downtown redevelopment, the couple frequently takes advantage of the great Arena District restaurants near their home in the evenings. Every Tuesday night they meet with Burnham Square neighbors at a local restaurant, bar or in one of the two common living rooms to socialize. In their free time, the family also plays on an Arena District kickball team. The social amenities are just as important to them as the convenience of living in an exciting environment, close to work.

continued >

LEFT: Cherry flooring blends beautifully with the Shaker-style cherry cabinetry. ABOVE: The master suite includes a large window with a view and a spacious bath. RIGHT: Guy and Caroline Worley stand together on their balcony.

